

Professor Catherine Eckel Named as a Top 25 Behavioral Economist

TheBestSchools.org, an independent organization comprised of a dedicated group of educators, editors, authors, and web professionals has named Catherine Eckel, Distinguished Professor of Economics, as one of the top 25 Behavioral Economists in the world. The top 25 list is based upon a measure of academic influence that has been developed by Influencerankings.com

The Top 25 roster includes five Nobel Laureates, Three John Bates Clarke Award Winners and ten Fellows of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. This is heady company and Catherine fits right in with this distinguished group of scholars.

To see the full ranking and read more about Catherine, visit the website here:

<https://thebestschools.org/features/top-behavioral-economists/>